

POLICY AND RESEARCH

To better understand and make sense of migration, ICMPD draws on its own specialised expertise located at Headquarters in two closely related units: Research and Policy. As an intergovernmental migration organisation with one foot in scientific research and the other in the world of government policies and international relations, ICMPD is uniquely placed to provide new perspectives and propose solutions for improved policy-making and policy implementation.

The Research Unit has been carrying out research on salient migration issues since 1997. Important research topics have included the causes and the consequences of migration, the processes and mechanisms of international migration and its regulation, as well as integration.

The Policy Unit was established in 2017 to conduct policy analysis and increase the organisation's contributions to policy debates. The aim is to make sense of migration and put forward new ideas and insights for improved migration policy development.

WHAT WE DO

The Research and Policy Units maintain (partially joint) portfolios consisting of third-party and internally funded initiatives and projects. Moreover, the units are tasked to undertake policy and research related activities in support of the geographic units in ICMPD in the four thematic areas:
